- සතණීයල් ල්ේට් introduzersට කරයවිතියයිත movements ගේට පිතිලකක Sis අපිද් අද් ඔබන්ද minute: This seems to be a mix of Sinhala and English, with many of the words not forming a coherent sentence in either language.
- Åᵏɭ per å ⁿᶜ Ḓ uɾ ᶜɾ e ꟺ i̭ŋɓ ᴀᵍ ᵇ Ḃ ᴄᶜ ꧅ ɑᶜ王 ⱺ: These appear to be individual Unicode symbols
- ៕: This symbol seems to be from the Khmer or Thai script, but it is not recognized as a word or sentence in that language.
- Å: This is a Latin letter A with a ring above.
- ᵏ: Represents the superscript of the Latin letter K.
- ɭ: This is a modifier letter small lambda, used in phonetics.
- å: This is a Latin letter a with a ring above.
- ⁿ: Represents the superscript of the Latin letter n, used in phonetics.
- ᶜ: Represents a superscript Latin small letter c, often used in scientific notation.
- Ḓ: This is a Latin Letter D with circumflex below.
- ᴜ: This is a small capital letter u, often used in phonetics.
- e : This is a Cyrillic script small letter Ye.
- ꟺ : This is a modifier letter small turned M.
- i̭: This is a Latin small letter i with circumflex below.
- ɒ: This is a modifier letter small turned A, used in phonetics.
- ᴀ: This is a small capital letter A, often used in phonetics.
- ᵍ: Represents the superscript of the Latin letter g.
- ᵇ: Represents the superscript of the Latin letter b.
- Ḃ: This is a Latin Letter B with a dot above.
- ᴄ: This is a small capital letter C, often used in phonetics.
- ꧅: This is a Javanese Pangrangkep, a closing punctuation mark in the Javanese script.
- ɑ: This is a modifier letter small beta, used in phonetics.
- 王: This is a Chinese character, which means 'king' in English.
- ⱺ: This is a small capital barred o, often used in phonetics.
- ʕ: This is a phonetic symbol for a voiced pharyngeal fricative, often represented as /ʕ/ in phonetic transcription.
- ៙: This is a Khmer symbol Barih Keset, a symbol with no phonetic value, used in the Khmer script for religious or Sanskrit text.